London Market Was Inclined to Be Heavy, but American Stocks Were Strong in Spots.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

New York, Dec. 21.—The London market was inclined to be heavy, but Americans showed strength in spots. The close was generally harder. Consols were a little heavy on the unsatisfactory news from South Africa, but the market was not seriously affected. The money position seemed to be clear, and beyond a possible flurry over the end of the year excited very little comment. Exchange in Paris and Berlin remains the same.

In the local market prices were irregular and upon the whole there was an aggressive but bullish feeling expressing itself mainly in different stocks. Mr. Lawson of Boston got the credit of engineering the action, which was probably not intended in catching step-orders on the way up.

Northern Pacific recovered its dividend on the first quotation of the day and continued to show strength up to the close, with rather feeble fluctuations. London was a seller of it in the early morning, but probably bought back on balance with stocks on hand. Railways common, Missouri Pacific advanced on poor operations and expectation that the stock would be put on a 4-per-cent dividend basis early in the new year. Atchison common advanced on dividend rumors helped by covering of shorts. A declaration anywhere before July 1 in the last degree, however, but an undividend dividend will probably be paid then.

The steel stocks were neglected and a little heavy. The delay in the publication of the Tennessee Coal and Iron report caused a little selling, and so far bull activity has not extended to industrials of this class.

The market was becoming more active with the appearance of small stocks. The Pacific features. It was said in the latter that the recent check in the advance had enabled strong interests to accumulate stocks and that it was to be taken considerably into account. In the grain centers, which largely from the beginning of the year were active traders all day, and reported very bullish sentiment among the small operators. The market was strong, and the quotations for the most part were advanced between 4 and 6 per cent, with the call loans done at 5 per cent.

With there is no doubt that Missouri Pacific is a good deal manipulated at present.
